To be considered for admission to the College of Nursing, applicants must attain a minimum weighted average of 60% based on 30 credit units of specific university-level course work. A deficiency of 3 credit units in one of the following courses is permitted, but a grade of 50% will be used in place of this deficient course for the purpose of calculating an admission average: social science, statistics, nutrition or Indigenous Studies.

Admission to the College of Nursing is competitive and based on a ranking determined by admission average, which is calculated using marks from the 30 credit units of pre-professional year courses.

All students whose first language is not English must present evidence of English proficiency. Visit the College of Nursing Website for more information: nursing.usask.ca/language.
